A CARING PREGNANCY RESOURCE CENTER OF NORTHEAST COLORADO

We bring hope to you!

Seen, Known, and Loved

When a young mother came to our center expecting her third child, she was facing an incredibly difficult season. Her husband was unemployed, finances were strained, and she carried painful memories from her own childhood. Growing up in a large family, she often felt unloved and overlooked. Determined to give her children a different experience, she came to us seeking support, encouragement, and hope.

Before her ultrasound appointment, she spent time with one of our client advocates. As they talked, the advocate listened with compassion, answered questions, and created a safe place for her to process her fears and concerns. During their conversation, it became evident that the stress and uncertainty surrounding her circumstances had caused her to emotionally disconnect from the pregnancy. By the end of their time together, however, she felt heard, valued, and grateful for someone willing to truly listen.

A few days later, she returned for her ultrasound. What happened next was powerful. To her surprise, she learned she was much further along than she had realized. As she watched her baby move on the screen and heard the heartbeat for the first time, her eyes widened with amazement.

"Wait... it's already a baby?!" she exclaimed.

In that moment, everything changed. The little life growing within her became real in a new and profound way. What had once felt distant suddenly became personal. We are continually reminded of the life-changing impact ultrasounds have in helping mothers connect with their babies and embrace the precious gift of life.

One of the most beautiful parts of this story is how God was already at work long before the ultrasound began. The advocate meeting with her happened to be wearing a skirt purchased on a recent mission trip. Remarkably, it was from the very same country where the client was born. What seemed like a small detail became an unexpected bridge of connection and trust.

God, in His perfect care, was weaving together details that communicated a powerful message to this mother: You are seen. You are known. You are loved.

Because of faithful supporters like you, women facing difficult circumstances are finding hope, experiencing compassion, and encountering the love of Christ at just the right moment. Thank you for making stories like this possible.

A Word from Our Executive Director

Greetings Friends,

Summer has always been my favorite season. The fields around us are green, gardens are flourishing, and everywhere we look, we are reminded that God is continually at work bringing life from tiny beginnings.

As I reflect on my first months as Executive Director, I'm overwhelmed with gratitude. This new chapter has given me the privilege of seeing our ministry through a different lens. I've had the opportunity to visit each of our centers, spend time with staff and volunteers, sit with clients in their moments of uncertainty, and connect with pregnancy center leaders from across Colorado.

I've witnessed countless miracles. I've celebrated with young moms who chose life when they felt they had no options. I've cried with women carrying heavy burdens. I've watched our staff serve with incredible compassion. And I've been deeply encouraged by the many people who continue to stand for life throughout our state.

One thing has become abundantly clear: the need for this ministry has never been greater. Every day, women are making life-changing decisions, often feeling scared, alone, and under immense pressure. Yet God continues to open doors for us to meet them right where they are—with practical support, truth, and the love of Christ.

Thank you for helping us be there when they need someone most, I look forward to visiting with each of you throughout the year.

God bless,

Amanda J. Shay
